

The SAHM story began more than 60 years ago. In 1945, the engineer Georg Sahm founded a small, independent tool manufacturing enterprise in Eschwege. Only 4 years later, he started the development of precision cross winders for the sewing thread industry. Since that time, entrepreneurial courage, foresight and attention to customers' needs have been decisive in the steady growth of SAHM.

Continuous dialogue

Continuous dialogue with our customers and agencies around the world and consistent implementation of technology with regard to our customers' requirements are the basis of our success. Today, SAHM is market leader in the field of automatic winding machines for high performance fibers.

Product Manager

Our focus on extensive research and development activity enables us to maintain and advance our leadership in world markets.

Our offices in Greenville, SC, USA, Guangzhou, China and New Delhi, India as well as a global network of outstanding sales agencies ensure us a presence in international market places, close to our customers on all continents, and enables us to provide reliable support.

In 2002, SAHM became part of the STARLINGER GROUP and a member of a renowned global group of companies.