

On all continents, SAHM winders have successfully operated in the production of premium products. In case problems arise, they can often be solved on the phone or via e-mail. In cooperation with you as our customers, our technical staff can check the settings of your machines to ensure smooth and efficient production performance.

Production downtime is expensive and not efficient in today's competitive markets. For this reason, one of the most important tasks of a service center is to be close to the customer and to provide the competence required for reducing machine downtime to an absolute minimum. SAHM sales agencies and technical offices on all five continents are a pledge of competent support for our customers once the sales activities are completed.
